

PAUL DAHLKE
Senior Designer

A graduate of Harvard University's Graduate School of Design, Paul Dahlke has twelve years of design experience working on educational, cultural, corporate, and residential projects. Paul has advanced expertise in visualization techniques and Building Information Modeling, and leads the technological advances for design development within the firm. As a Senior Designer, Paul leverages a keen design sensibility with the latest digital technology to articulate the design vision with compelling visual materials. Paul remains heavily involved in the realization of the design through the documentation and construction phases.
